

Letter from the Provost

Welcome, or welcome back, to Raffles College!

The Handbook can guide you through life at the college: Courses, subjects, staff, appeals, and so on.

I would also like to draw to your attention that this year, there is a revamped Students' Representative Council, Learning Support Officers for guidance and help with your learning, Advisers and Mentors for help on other issues, and some new courses to be announced.

Above all there is a new structure to the academic year, with more weeks in the academic year and the introduction of induction weeks (for remedial work, particularly theoretical work) and production weeks (for catch-up work, particularly practical work).

Enjoy the year!

Professor Tony Shannon
Provost

Raffles College of Design and Commerce Mission Statement

Centred around design, design education and commerce, Raffles College aims to deliver high quality teaching through curricula that consistently emphasise:

- Creativity and innovation
- Enterprise and entrepreneurship
- Industry relevance and employability
- Professional excellence
- Socially responsible professional practice

Raffles College will deliver its programs through its own campus in Australia and throughout the Asia region in partnership with Raffles University. Being able to offer its programs through the Raffles Education (REC) network provides our students and lecturers a unique opportunity to live and work in a number of international environments and in the process gain a competitive edge in the global economy.
