Summer holiday workshops at Raffles

During the January 2010 school holidays, Raffles College of Design and Commerce is offering workshops for people who want to find out more about pursuing a career in design.

Interested in being a graphic designer, an interior designer or a games designer? Come along to one of our intensive 5-day workshops for the learning experience of a lifetime. Suitable for Year 10 students (16 years) and above.

Holiday workshops will be held in seven areas:

Animation	Creative digital photography
Digital film making	Fashion design and illustration
Flash Games Design	Graphic Design
Interior Design

Luna Belanov, 23, attended the July 2009 workshop to study interior design and is now aiming to study at Raffles College next year. The Concord resident says the workshop provided a good basic understanding of interior design fundamentals. "We were taught about fabrics, colours and how to draw up plans," she says. "We had an assignment where we had to design the interior of a one-bedroom house and I was able to add that to my portfolio.

"We had a lot of one-on-one time with the teachers, which was really good," says Luna. "Having a small group meant we could learn as much as possible and I know the younger, high school girls in particular found the whole workshop really helpful."

You will be tutored by some of Australia's best industry practitioners, so don't miss out. Workshops will run from Monday January 11 to Friday January 15 and Monday 18 January to Friday 22 January. Holiday workshops cost $350 each (GST inclusive). Materials for some workshops are extra. Applications should be received no later than December 31, 2009. Please note that workshops are offered subject to numbers.
