

Design scholarship opportunity

CASS MEGRAW

SKYROCKETING the careers of Australia's future fashionistas and business moguls, Raffles College of Design and Commerce is offering six scholarships for next year's intake.

Applications close on Wednesday, September 30, for the chance to study commerce, design or arts next year. A full scholarship at the North Sydney college is valued at more than $55,000.

Raffles chief executive officer Isaac Ng said the scholarships helped students achieve "a unique education experience and strong career prospective" through the college's degree programs.

Winner of the 2007 full-fee

Provost scholarship, Brad Butler, is in his final year of a bachelor of design degree.

As a year 12 student, he applied for a full-fee scholarship and has laid the foundations for his own fashion label, Oscar Brennan.

He beat more than 200 entrants to make the finals of the Jeans for Genes Do it With Denim competition.

He also won first prize in Spotlight's national formal wear competition.

Mr Butler said the college teachers expanded his knowledge of the industry.

"They're full of knowledge about each of their specialties and still work in all different streams of the industry," he said.
